IN THE HEART OF THE VIBRANT CUBA QUARTER

Welcome to the 2nd Awesome Arts Access Auction.

The arts in all their forms add richness to our lives. Creativity adds value and enhances our wellbeing. We all benefit, either as practising artists, audience members at live performances and cultural festivals, or when we visit exhibitions and galleries. Having the opportunity to express ourselves creatively also gives us purpose and satisfaction.

All people in New Zealand have the right to express themselves through creative pursuits or to be included as members of an audience; to learn and benefit economically from the arts and be able to make a valuable contribution to their community through their art.

Sadly, all people in New Zealand don't have this right because of their disabilities and impairments. One in four (1.1 million) people in New Zealand has a disability or impairment that affects their daily lives.

There is a lack of understanding about the requirements of people who have access needs. Arts Access Aotearoa is changing this. Your support tonight helps us make the arts accessible for all people in New Zealand with disabilities and impairments.

Richard Cunliffe
Chair

Tonight there are more than 45 items that could be yours, including a luxury break away in Christchurch at the George Hotel with tickets To the Phantom of the Opera at the Isaac Theatre Royal; a luxury break in the Wairarapa courtesy of Gazely Motors; and dinner for eight served in your home by fabulous caterers Simply Foods. There's even a Weber Baby Q.

We are particularly grateful to Olivier Lacoua, General Manager, and staff of CQ Hotels Wellington – our essential partner in this event and champions of accessibility.

Thank you to every individual, artist, business and arts organisation that has donated a wonderful range of auction items. Thanks to our suppliers for the food, beverages, design, eftpos, photography, printing and technical expertise, and for each person who has volunteered tonight and with ticket sales. Thank you to everyone who has attended and for bidding – your support helps Arts Access Aotearoa make the arts accessible for everyone.

Richard Bengé
Executive Director

This is Thane Pullan, a comedian and member of Arts Access Aotearoa's Making a Difference Arts Advocates Christchurch. This group of disabled people has been trained to advocate for participation and inclusion in the arts – essential as Christchurch rebuilds.
